161 Akbar, Gold Mohur, 10.92g, "Kalima" type, Bang- Bhakkar Mint, AH 986, with "Ship" mint mark on reverse. Extremely fine, exceedingly rare.

Nicholas Rhodes had noticed a similar mark on the square rupees of Bang mint and presented a view that round 'Kalima' type rupees with a similar mark should also be attributed to Bang (article in 'Numismatic Digest', vol.32-33). On these rupees the mint-name was previously read as Bhakkar but of course the reading could fit the orthography of 'Bang' as well. However, the argument is complicated by the fact that hardly any of the 'ship'-marked round rupees have been even found in Bengal, or indeed in Eastern parts of India. This is the first known gold Mohur that corresponds with the 'ship'-marked round rupees. Whether it is Bhakkar or Bang mint, the fact remains that this is an extremely rare variety of Akbar's gold coins. The only other known example of a Mohur of Bhakkar mint is in the Lahore Museum's collection. As regards Bang, only one other round Kalima type Mohur is known for that mint (Zeno #141591).

- 231 Shah Jahan, Gold Mohur, 10.90g, "Kalima" type, Kabul Mint, RY 5. Extremely fine, exceedingly rare.
The provincial capital of Kabul became a vantage point for the Mughals to keep a close eye on Central Asia and Iran. Shah Jahan often travelled to Kabul and stayed there to conduct 'hunting expeditions' in the countryside, which were the equivalent of today's military exercises.
Coins of this type have been listed on 'Zeno.ru' as 'date off' however comparing with silver issues of the same type it is evident that the RY appears just above the 'Be' of 'Shihab' on obverse. The figure on this coin is obviously 5. Thus make this coin rarer.

Aurangzeb captured Bijapur earlier on during his Deccan campaign of 1684 onwards and subsequently it became the seat of a Mughal province. It was an important centre of activities during the Mughal campaign against the Marathas which lasted till the death of Aurangzeb. During these years he often stationed himself in or around Bijapur. It is plausible that Nisars or scattering coins were struck during one of the many court functions or processions that might have been held at Bijapur during this long period.

284 Arkat, Silver Rupee, 10.77g, Pseudo mint name Arkat, in the name of Muhammad Shah, Katar- Dagger as a Mint mark (Unlisted in M&W). Very fine, exceedingly rare.

In Maharashtra and Karnataka "Arkat Rupee" became very popular during 18th century under the Peshwas' rule and many mints struck coins which were based on the basic Arkat design. Sometimes symbols of specific Maratha affinity were added to them. As all these coins bear the mint name "Arkat" it is difficult to say where they were struck, but their find spots suggest they were being minted mostly in Western Maharashtra and North Western Karnataka, which were areas of Jagirs held by prominent Maratha sardars such as the Patwardhans who were also instrumental in many Maratha campaigns to the deep South. This is undoubtedly one such issue where the symbol of a dagger has been intentionally added to the reverse design. Although it cannot be identified as an issue of a particular Mint.

345 Nizam Ali Khan Asaf Jah II, Silver Rupee, 11.27g, Khujista Bunyad Mint, in the name of Shah Alam II, AH 1187, with Devnagari legend "Ram" written upside down near the RY. Extremely fine for type, exceedingly rare.
 This is an unusual type of coin of the Nizam where the name of a Hindu deity is used as a mint-mark or a signifier for an issuer / licensee who farmed the minting rights. The coin bears date 1187 - AH1187 corresponds to 1173 and FE1187 would correspond to 1777. This was a period of great political uncertainty in the region with the Maratha court in Pune in grips of a feud between Raghunath Rao and his ministers. The Nizam was reduced to a powerless ruler after his defeat at the battle of Rakshas Bhuvan in 1763. It is difficult to surmise what must have been the reason to include 'Ram' in Devanagari as a mark on coins from the Nizam's principle mint but most likely it must have been a Hindu licensee, or it is also possible that the coins were struck at a Hindu Jagirdar under the Nizam's command with a pseudo-mint name.

But the Mint Committee at Calcutta overturned this proposal because they were not sure about the expenses involved in it and suggested that copper coins for Banaras should be supplied directly from Calcutta instead.
